

Veronica 'Tissington White'

Selling

April to May

Features

Mat forming, dark green foliage with spires of white flowers with delicate blue veining, from April to June.

Benefits

An easy to grow perennial which gives a stunning show. It has a hollyhock like appearance, and is good in any border. Often described as enchanting!

Story

Veronica is the largest genus (family) name in the plant world, and is often a food source for butterflies and moths.

Basic Information

Plant type

Perennial

Flowers

White flowers with pale blue veining from April

Height

45cm (8")

Spread

50cm (20")

Position

Sun or light shade, in any soil

Hardiness

Hardy